Legal Experience

General Civil Litigation - Mr. Dahlberg litigates a wide array of matters, including embezzlement and misappropriation recovery and prosecution, insurance coverage, disability access defense, construction defect, real estate disclosure, personal injury, professional liability, civil rights, false arrest, and other intentional tort litigation.

He also actively counsels California owners and managers of private property and litigates for them issues concerning the alleged rights of political campaigns and others to use private commercial property, and often can persuade these campaigns and their associates to leave client premises before trespass litigation is commenced.

Retailers and security firms often ask Mr. Dahlberg to litigate the propriety of subpoenas addressed to them calling for private and confidential commercial information, requiring on occasion that these demands be narrowed or quashed.

Education

J.D. 1978 Yale University Law School.

A.B. 1975 University of California, Berkeley.

Recent Interesting Case

Mr. Dahlberg recently tracked and recovered several million dollars in embezzlement losses to a client firm, negotiating a return of property, and suing the embezzler to freeze his assets until all claims were resolved. The FBI and the United States relied upon the evidence located and analyzed by Dillingham & Murphy LLP to arrest and prosecute the embezzler, who entered a binding Guilty Plea Agreement before the Northern District of California in July, 2008.
